

Churn Valley Hash House Harriers

Run No 1???

The Plough, Cold Aston

10th June, 2013

A glorious evening, although a bit of a chill in the air. Some 30 runners and what sounded like even more dogs, although on closer inspection it was just Willow and Alfie.

No Bags or Sheeps Hat in evidence so volunteers were requested to write the mag. I think I must have experienced one of those senior moments as I agreed. Ho hum.

Turns out that the pub is not open on a Monday evening, but someone had sorted it,- good job.

After a bit of shilly shallaying around the village we set off across country heading for Notgrove. Mostly cross country until we got to the Manor House. Much oohing and aahing about the gates and the driveway at the regroup, and then a sneaky on on in the opposite field.

Running alongside on the road St John and Barry the Spit decided on a short cut, but the absence of any bars precluded the usual penalty while the rest of us dragged our way round a particularly large field and began to head for home. The final run in was a glorious downhill and back into the village where comedy awaited as Stallion tried to retrieve his keys from the top of a wall that was a bit to big for him.

No awards as nothing to give out, and as this mag is some 2 and a half months late I will not put in next weeks runs!
